

DocPilot End-to-End Test Document

This document is a fixture used by the automated end-to-end test. It exists to exercise the full processing pipeline without a real PDF. The parser extracts this text, the cleaner normalizes it, and the chunker splits it into retrievable passages that are embedded as vectors.

DocPilot answers questions strictly from the uploaded document and attaches verifiable citations that quote the source text word for word. When the document contains no supporting evidence, DocPilot refuses to answer instead of guessing, which keeps every citation trustworthy.

Session handling, upload flow, parsing, retrieval and grounded answering are all covered by this single deterministic end-to-end scenario.
